>Dear Yayori, Chung Ok, and friends,

>I just arrive from NY with a delayed flight and all. Sorry that I haven't responded with you all soon as the situation in my country was quite volatile and I didn't know the situation until I am back. We have a new president and things are being normalized.

>1. While in NY I was able to participate in a telephone conference among the judges and legal advisers on their preparations for the writing of the judgment. They are trying to finalize the judgment based on the available materials, evidences, exhibits and testimonies. They will be working with the country prosecutors and chief prosecutors on interrelating the evidences with the documents and exhibits based on their actual presentations in Tokyo. The judges needed the following:

>a. Written transcriptions of the three days proceedings. We are starting to do it here in the Philippines and also we are getting some law firms and NGOs to do it in NY.

>b. They needed an entire copy of all the video proceedings of the four days. We will request VawwNet Japan who videod the four days to bring the copies to the Seoul meeting. It will also go to the archives of the registry, duly numbered.

>c. The judges are working with the legal advisers and will need our support when ask in relation to the exhibits and evidences clarifications, including testimonies.

>While in the Hague I was also able to meet Patti who have some suggestions on how the country prosecutors could help out relate their indictments with the documents. The registry are trying very hard rto relate al this documents, as some documents submitted are not translated.

>2. The judgment will definitely not going to be on March 8 as it would be too soon. We needd to decide in the IOC meeting on th exact month and date either on April or May. The judges said they will try to finish by last week of April. We also needed the time to raise funds and get visas to the place the judgement would be. We needed to coordinate people in advance to work on those places for coordination and secretariat work.

>3. I agree that we should have the meeting in Seoul since it is best for Yun Chung Ok. My suggestion is that we do it on Jan. 30 or 31, also since Yayori is leaving on Feb 3 for another schdule. Or maybe if you can you can fly out of Seoul to LA and we can meet in Feb.1 or 2.

>We invite all victimized countries to participate in the meeting, but you have to take care of your travel fares. We will ask Korean Council of their hosting requirements.
