FOUNDATION OF WOMEN AND FAMILY

Seoul Foundation of Women and Family

The Seoul Foundation of Women and Family (SFWF) is a public institute established in 2002 for the purpose of researching and developing Seoul's policies on women, families, and gender equality. The Foundation contributes to expanding the network and cooperation on women's issues by working with various institutions and organizations both inside and outside of Korea. The SFWF also provides public zones and spaces that support gender equality.

A Think Tank for Women's Policy

We transform the everyday lives of women

We work with citizens to discover and develop gender-equality policies that make substantial changes in women's everyday lives and spread the value of gender equality on a daily basis. We also strive to find and create better and more sustainable jobs and workplaces for women.

We support family diversity

We provide custom-tailored support for diverse family arrangements, including families with working parents, single parents, immigrant parents, and others. Also, we develop social resources and networks to ensure the safety of women and families. Our social security networks strive to safeguard the rights and protections of all vulnerable groups, including elderly women living alone, women with disabilities, and female victims of violence.

A Hub of Networking

We support the growth of women NGOs

We support the activities of grassroots women activists, and promote solidarity and cooperation among women's organizations. We constantly engage citizens, NGOs, experts, and policymakers in ongoing dialogue and debates in search of truly participatory and valuable gender-equality policies.

A Space for Gender Equality

We promote gender equality by providing a public space

The Seoul Women's Plaza is open to all citizens. It is a great venue for various public and private events, including exchanges among women's organizations, debates and workshops, self-support programs, cultural and educational programs, and others.
