
STUDIES OF THE EAST ASIAN INSTITUTE

COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY

Columbia University
East Asian Institute
420 West 118th Street
New York, NY 10027

STUDIES OF THE
EAST ASIAN INSTITUTE
COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY

The Studies of the East Asian Institute were inaugurated in 1962 to bring to public attention the results of significant new research on modern and contemporary East Asia. They are published by both academic and commercial presses and represent scholars of East Asia from around the world. (For ordering information see the back cover of this brochure.)

The East Asian Institute, Columbia University's center for research, publication, and teaching on modern East Asia, publishes its own series of Occasional Papers and Institute Reports, a list of which may be obtained by contacting the publications office of the Institute by mail (see return address on front cover); telephone: (212) 854-1735; or FAX: (212) 749-1497.

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

Paula S. Harrell. Sowing the Seeds of Change: Chinese Students, Japanese Teachers, 1895-1905 (Stanford University Press, 1992)

A close look at the first large study-abroad movement anywhere in the world, when thousands of Chinese students grappled with many of the issues still confronting China nearly a century later.

Howard B. Schonberger. Aftermath of War: Americans and the Remaking of Japan, 1945-1952 (Kent State University Press, 1989)

"...[Schonberger's] prodigious research, scrupulous judgements, and passionate concern for the subject distinguish this manuscript." Michael Schaller, University of Arizona

Sadao Asada, ed. Japan and the World, 1853-1952: A Bibliographic Guide to Recent Scholarship in Japanese Foreign Relations (Columbia University Press, 1988)

"...a truly unique compilation...will establish itself as an indispensable research guide to Japan specialists throughout the world..." Akira Iriye, University of Chicago

Christopher Thorne. Border Crossings: Studies in International History (Basil Blackwell, 1988)

The essays range across such issues as the relationships between the study of international relations and that of sociology; the nature of Anglo-American relations in the first half of the twentieth century; and the long-term consequences of American society's responses to the Second World War.

Robert S. Ross. The Indochina Tangle: China's Vietnam Policy, 1975-1979 (Columbia University Press, 1988)

"...Ross writes tightly and argues clearly, providing the reader with historical background, various possible interpretations, and methodological considerations." Library Journal

Warren I. Cohen, ed. New Frontiers in American-East Asian Relations: Essays Presented to Dorothy Borg (Columbia University Press, 1983)

"The volume embodies scholarship of a high order. Most essays are written by the very scholars whose works initiated an archetypal shift in the field." Samuel S. Kim, Monmouth College

Dorothy Borg and Waldo Heinrichs, eds. Uncertain Years: Chinese-American Relations 1947-1950 (Columbia University Press, 1980)

"One of the most interesting and significant works on American-East Asian relations of recent years, clearly written and well organized." Library Journal

O. Edmund Clubb. China and Russia: The "Great Game" (Columbia University Press, 1971)

Available in paperback

"...a breathtakingly broad effort...invaluable for detail [and] insightful interrelationships offered to the reader..." Allen S. Whiting, University of Michigan

Japan's Road to the Pacific War

Selected translation of the Taiheiyo senso e no michi James W. Morley, ed. (New York: Columbia University Press)

Volume I: Japan Erupts: The London Naval Conference and the Manchurian Incident (1984)

Volume II: The China Quagmire: Japan's Expansion on the Asian Continent, 1933-1941 (1983)

Volume III: Deterrent Diplomacy (1976)

Volume IV: The Fateful Choice: Japan's Advance into Southeast Asia (1980)

Volume V: The Final Confrontation: Japan's Negotiations with the United States, 1941 (forthcoming in 1994)

"...greatly to be welcomed. The full complexity of policy-making is revealed and the subtle distinction between institutions and individuals are clarified." Times Literary Supplement

CHINA

Dorothy Solinger. China's Transition from Socialism: Statist Legacies and Market Reforms, 1980-1990 (M.E. Sharpe, 1993)

"...a rare display of systemic insight into the unplanned (and often unwanted) offspring of state-sponsored economic reform..." Richard Baum, UCLA

James Reardon-Anderson. Pollution, Politics and Foreign Investment in Taiwan: The Lukang Rebellion (M. E. Sharpe, 1993)

A small event with large consequences makes for interesting and significant history.

Helen Chauncey. Schoolhouse Politicians: Locality and State during the Chinese Republic (University of Hawaii Press, 1992)

A carefully crafted history which argues for the importance of local initiative in defining the post-imperial state and suggests a rethinking of our understanding of Republican-period politics.

Harvey J. Feldman, ed. Constitutional Reform and the Future of the Republic of China (M.E. Sharpe, 1991)

Rare insight into the critical issues affecting the future of Taiwan.

James Reardon-Anderson. The Study of Change: Chemistry in China, 1840-1949 (Cambridge University Press, 1991)

"...a work of prodigious scholarship which traces the rise of scientific consciousness and the development of a scientific community in China by focusing on the history of chemistry within a broad context of political, social, and intellectual change." Steven I. Levine, Duke University

Andrew J. Nathan. China's Crisis: Dilemmas of Reform and Prospects for Democracy (Columbia University Press, 1990)

Essays illuminating the past two decades of Chinese politics and the origins of the current situation.

Peter Zarrow. Anarchism and Chinese Political Culture (Columbia University Press, 1990)

"...this superb book examines the complex issues of Chinese anarchism over the first three decades of this century and its influences on Chinese Marxism, Chinese politics, and Mao Zedong." Joshua Fogel, University of California, Santa Barbara

C. Martin Wilbur and Julie Lien-ying How.

Missionaries of the Revolution: Soviet Advisers and Chinese Nationalism (Harvard University Press, 1989)

"...a work...that is unlikely ever to be superseded with respect to its wealth of detail and the soundness of its historical judgements." Steven I. Levine, Duke University

Kathleen Hartford and Steven M. Goldstein, eds. Single Sparks: China's Rural Revolutions

(M.E. Sharpe, 1989) Available in paperback
Setting the Chinese Revolution in a comparative context, these authors examine the interaction among peasants, the CCP, rural elites and international pressure.

Edwin A. Winckler and Susan Greenhalgh, eds. Contending Approaches to the Political Economy of Taiwan (M.E. Sharpe, 1988)

Available in paperback
Authors employ new field research and documentary sources to analyze key episodes in Taiwan's modern history.

James D. Seymour. China's Satellite Parties (M.E. Sharpe, 1987)

"...will be welcomed by everyone interested in modern Chinese politics. The so-called 'middle parties'...have been largely overlooked and misunderstood by Western observers. This study presents a condensed but readable review." Choice

Steven I. Levine. Anvil of Victory: The Communist Revolution in Manchuria, 1945-1948 (Columbia University Press, 1987)

"...a brilliant work and...a model of its kind." John K. Fairbank, Harvard University

Carl Riskin. China's Political Economy: The Quest for Development since 1949 (Oxford University Press, 1987) Available in paperback

"...the reader can be assured that he [or she] is receiving a judicious account of the country's recent economic history...with a balanced presentation of events in agriculture, industry, commerce, trade and administration." The Economic Journal

R. Randle Edwards, Louis Henkin, and Andrew J. Nathan. Human Rights in Contemporary China (Columbia University Press, 1986)

Available in paperback
"The most complete introduction to the subject yet written ..." Foreign Affairs

Paul A. Cohen. Discovering History in China: American Historical Writing on the Recent Chinese Past (Columbia University Press, 1984) Available in paperback

"Every historian of China should read this book..." The American Historical Review

Roderick MacFarquhar. The Origins of the Cultural Revolution (Columbia University Press)
Volume I: Contradictions Among the People, 1956-1957 (1974) Available in paperback
Volume II: The Great Leap Forward, 1958-1960 (1983) Available in paperback
 "...a model of scholarship...will be drawn on by Sinologists for years to come." Foreign Affairs

Jonathan Unger. Education Under Mao: Class and Competition in Canton Schools (Columbia University Press, 1982) Available in paperback
 "...a model of clarity...records the largest educational experiment in history. It deserves widespread attention." Margaret Peil, International Journal of Educational Development

James Reardon-Anderson. Yenan and the Great Powers: The Origins of Chinese Communist Foreign Policy (Columbia University Press, 1980) Available in paperback
 An examination of Mao and his political colleagues' early attempts to deal with the outside world.

Edward M. Gunn, Jr. Unwelcome Muse: Chinese Literature in Shanghai and Peking, 1937-1945 (Columbia University Press, 1980)
 An unprecedented exploration of the literature and literary community of occupied China, illuminating a time when tremendous upheaval wrought a literature of depth and vitality.

Johanna Meskill. A Chinese Pioneer Family: The Lins of Wu-Feng (Princeton University Press, 1979) Available in paperback
 Local Taiwanese social history revealed through study of one family.

Warren I. Cohen. The China Connection: Roger S. Greene, Thomas W. Lamont, George E. Sokolsky, and American-East Asian Relations (Columbia University Press, 1978)
 "...an important addition to the literature on American-East Asian relations." Journal of American History

Myron L. Cohen. House United, House Divided: The Chinese Family in Taiwan (Columbia University Press, 1976)
 "...clear, concise, factual, incisive, and provocative. This should be required reading for anyone with a serious interest in Chinese family organization." Stevan Harrell, University of Washington

C. Martin Wilbur. Sun Yat-sen: Frustrated Patriot (Columbia University Press, 1976)
 In the vast disparities between Dr. Sun's dreams for his country, the realities of international politics, and China's domestic condition, Wilbur sees the explanation for Dr. Sun's sadly frustrated career.

Thomas A. Metzger. Escape from Predicament: Neo-Confucianism and China's Evolving Political Culture (Columbia University Press, 1976) Available in paperback
 "...the sense of the recaptured relevance of Confucianism...gives a sense of spontaneity to Metzger's work....Reading it one gets a feeling that a corner is being turned in Chinese historiography." Jonathan Spence, New York Review of Books

John Israel and Donald W. Klein. Rebels and Bureaucrats: China's December 9ers (University of California Press, 1976)
 "The December 9 [1935] material chronicles another finding from comparative politics: the uneasy alliance between radical-leftist political parties and young intelligentsia...an effective longitudinal study extending over several decades." The American Political Science Review

John R. Watt. The District Magistrate in Late Imperial China (Columbia University Press, 1972)
 An elegant scrutiny of the institutional and historical setting in which Qing officials operated.

C.T. Hu. Aspects of Chinese Education (Teachers College Press, 1970) Available in paperback
 Essays on the development of Chinese education since 1949.

A. Doak Barnett. Cadres, Bureaucracy, and Political Power in Communist China (Columbia University Press, 1968)
 "Professor Barnett describes the operations of the Communist system with skill and ingenuity....There is no better account of how the Communist government actually operated in 1965." The Atlantic

Ping-ti Ho. The Ladder of Success in Imperial China (Columbia University Press, 1962; out of print)
 A classic study of social mobility in Ming and Qing China.

JAPAN

Hosea Hirata. Nishiwaki Junzaburo: The Poetry and Poetics of a Modernist Master (Princeton University Press, 1993)
 A substantial translation of two poetry collections, Ambarvalia (1933) and Tabibito Kaerazu (1947), and the narrative poem, "Eterunitas" (1962) is accompanied by the first critical study to place Nishiwaki, long revered in Japan as a foremost poet and critic, within twentieth-century world literatures.

Studies of the East Asian Institute, Columbia University

Gerald L. Curtis, ed. Japan's Foreign Policy after the Cold War: Coping with Change (M.E.Sharpe, 1993)

"...must' reading for anyone interested in Japan's evolving world role." George Packard, The Paul Nitze School of Advanced International Studies, The Johns Hopkins University

Alan M. Tansman. The Writings of Kōda Aya, a Japanese Literary Daughter (Yale University Press, 1993)

"...a valuable study of an individual author [and] an insightful and detailed examination of postwar writers' attitudes toward the future of fiction, the spiritual state of the nation, and such central literary and intellectual issues as modernity, war guilt, and recovery....His tantalizing exploration of critical attitudes toward femininity and narrative in Japan invites further discussion of this crucial topic." Ann Sherif, Case Western Reserve University

Hiroshi Ishida. Social Mobility in Contemporary Japan (Stanford University Press, 1993)

"This fine, academic study about social mobility in comparative perspective (Japan, the U.S. and the U.K.) levels many of the prevailing, treasured myths about Japanese distinctiveness." The Japan Times

Robert Angel. Explaining Economic Policy Failure: Japan and the 1969-1971 International Monetary Crisis (Columbia University Press, 1991)

"If you want to understand why U.S.-Japan relations are so messy today...you should begin by reading this book." Edward J. Lincoln, The Brookings Institution

Michael Smitka. Competitive Ties: Subcontracting in the Japanese Automotive Industry (Columbia University Press, 1991)

"...a significant contribution to the growing literature on the governance of business relationships. It establishes clearly the importance of trust as something distinct from command and contract." Ronald Dore, Imperial College, London

Alan Wolfe. Suicidal Narrative in Modern Japan: The Case of Dazai Osamu (Princeton University Press, 1990)

"...a real accomplishment...[the book] has resonance, ambition and scope..." J. Thomas Rimer, University of Maryland

Frances Rosenbluth. Financial Politics in Contemporary Japan (Cornell University Press, 1989)

"The book is chock-full of new factual information, zesty composition, and lively insights--an engaging mixture of real people and conflicting organizations moving quickly through a series of ever-changing battlefields." T.J. Pempel, Cornell University

Richard Rubinger and Edward Beauchamp.

Education in Japan (Garland Publishing, 1989)

A comprehensive annotated bibliography of works on Japanese education...an invaluable reference.

Theodore C. Bestor. Neighborhood Tokyo (Stanford University Press, 1989) Available in paperback

"This remarkable book, the first detailed account of city life in Japan to appear in 30 years, is destined to become a landmark in the study of postwar Japanese society." Robert J. Smith, Cornell University
A 30 minute ethnographic video, Neighborhood Tokyo, based on this book and narrated by the author, has been issued by Media Production Group in association with the Japanese National Institute of Multimedia Education.

Gerald L. Curtis. The Japanese Way of Politics (Columbia University Press, 1988) Available in paperback

"...a landmark in the study of Japanese politics..." Ezra Vogel, Harvard University

Theodore Cohen, edited by Herbert Passin.

Remaking Japan: The American Occupation as New Deal (Free Press, 1987)

"Cohen's is the most important insider's account of the occupation yet published." Chalmers Johnson, University of California, San Diego

Anne E. Imamura. Urban Japanese Housewives: At Home and in the Community (University of Hawaii Press, 1987) Available in paperback

"...not only one of the best serious pieces of research on this range of issues, but one of the most solidly done to date." Herbert Passin, Columbia University

Dennis T. Yasutomo. The Manner of Giving: Strategic Aid and Japanese Foreign Policy (Free Press, 1986)

Reveals how Japan, unable to rely on its moderate military capabilities, has attempted to defend itself by strategic use of economic incentives and sanctions.

Carol Gluck. Japan's Modern Myths: Ideology in the Late Meiji Period (Princeton University Press, 1985) Available in paperback

"...in many ways, the best book on Meiji ideology..." Marius B. Jansen, Princeton University

Paul Varley. Japanese Culture, 3rd ed. revised (University of Hawaii Press, 1984) Available in paperback

"...this volume is a masterpiece." Booklist

Ronald Toby. State and Diplomacy in Early Modern Japan (Princeton University Press, 1983; Stanford University Press, 1991) Available in paperback

"...impressive depth of detail and documentation." John Whitney Hall, Yale University

Amy Vladeck Heinrich. Fragments of Rainbows: The Life and Poetry of Saito Mokichi, 1882-1953 (Columbia University Press, 1983)

"...written from a broad critical perspective which combines the extensive Japanese scholarship on Mokichi with an effortless intimacy with American poetry and criticism." Janine Beichman, Tsukuba University

Michael M. Yoshitsu. Japan and the San Francisco Peace Settlement (Columbia University Press, 1982)

Using personal interviews as primary sources for his penetrating analysis, Yoshitsu reconstructs the decision-making story behind postwar Japan's first rearmament proposal.

Richard Rubinger. Private Academies of Tokugawa Japan (Princeton University Press, 1982)

Offers insight into the variety of educational experience of the early Meiji leadership group and into the Tokugawa origins of many of Japan's modern approaches to education.

William F. Morton. Tanaka Giichi and Japan's China Policy (St. Martin's Press, 1980)

"...admirably fills a long-felt need for a book-length treatment of the controversial Prime Minister's policies and personality...without doubt the best biography of Prime Minister Tanaka in the English language." Choice

John C. Campbell. Contemporary Japanese Budget Politics (University of California Press, 1977)
Available in paperback

An important statement about the nature of budgeting and its place within the study of public policy, which challenges many accepted notions of how the Japanese decision-making system works.

Michael Blaker. Japanese International Negotiating Style (Columbia University Press, 1977)

"...a highly original work. It is in some sense lamentable that such a study was accomplished by a foreign scholar." Sankei Shimbun

G. Cameron Hurst. Insei: Abdicated Sovereigns in the Politics of Late Heian Japan (Columbia University Press, 1975)

A sophisticated and trenchant study, valuable for students of comparative history, legal and social institutions, and monarchy.

Calvin L. French. Shiba Kōkan: Artist, Innovator, and Pioneer in the Westernization of Japan (Weatherhill, 1974)

A fascinating study of a most uncommon man and artist, a seminal figure in Japan's modern history.

David A. Titus. Palace and Politics in Prewar Japan (Columbia University Press, 1974; UMI reprint)

"...a superlative analysis of the role of the Imperial Household in the labyrinthine Japanese politics of the 1930s..." Foreign Affairs

Donald R. Thurston. Teachers and Politics in Japan (Princeton University Press, 1973)

"A thorough...discussion of Japan's influential Japan Teacher's Union (JTU)...a key book in considering education in Japan and an excellent study of both the politics of education and of a trade union." Choice

Dorothy Borg and Shumpei Okamoto, eds. Pearl Harbor as History: Japanese-American Relations, 1931-1941 (Columbia University Press, 1973; out of print)

"...a major historical contribution." Foreign Affairs

Gerald L. Curtis. Election Campaigning Japanese Style (Columbia University Press, 1971; Kodansha International/USA Ltd., 1984)
Available in paperback

"...unquestionably an outstanding political study using the method of participant observation...remarkably well written." The American Political Science Review

Martin E. Weinstein. Japan's Postwar Defense Policy, 1947-1968 (Columbia University Press, 1971; UMI reprint)

A study of the origins of Japan's postwar defense policies, still relevant today.

Paul Varley. Imperial Restoration in Medieval Japan (Columbia University Press, 1971; UMI reprint)

"This excellent work gives a detailed examination and analysis of the Kemmu Restoration of 1333-36..." Journal of Asian History

Shumpei Okamoto. The Japanese Oligarchy and the Russo-Japanese War (Columbia University Press, 1970; UMI reprint)

An analysis of the problems of oligarchic policy making; the effect of modernization on elites; the nature of nationalism; and the origins, organization, and significance of mass violence.

Koji Taira. Economic Development and the Labor Market in Japan (Columbia University Press, 1970; UMI reprint)

A survey of the way in which the labor market in Japan provides for equalization of net advantages of employment in different occupations, industries, firms, and geological areas.

Herschel Webb. The Japanese Imperial Institution in the Tokugawa Period (Columbia University Press, 1968)
 "...[this] study of the Japanese emperorship will surely be the standard English-language account for years to come. It is one of the great works on Japanese history." Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science

Marleigh Ryan. Japan's First Modern Novel: Ukigumo of Futabei Shimei (Columbia University Press, 1967; UMI reprint)
 "This is a valuable and intelligent book...[Ms. Ryan's] translation is accurate, frequently graceful, and sometimes ingenious." The New York Times

KOREA

Edwin H. Gragert. Land Ownership under Colonial Rule: Korea's Japanese Experience, 1900-1935 (University of Hawaii Press, 1994)
 "...a work of considerable historiographical significance, challenging entrenched assumptions and opening new avenues of research on the colonial period." Carter Eckert, Harvard University

Jung-en Woo. Race to the Swift: State and Finance in Korean Industrialization (Columbia University Press, 1991)
 A study of the Korean state's use of financial resources to accumulate power, force rapid industrialization, and create a new class of entrepreneurs during the later twentieth century.

Dae-Sook Suh. Kim Il Sung: The North Korean Leader (Columbia University Press, 1988)
 "...certain to become the standard reference for many years to come." B.C. Koh, University of Illinois, Chicago

Laurel Kendall. Shamans, Housewives, and other Restless Spirits: Women in Korean Ritual Life (University of Hawaii Press, 1985)
 Available in paperback
 "...an excellent example of the new gendered anthropology...a fine piece of research." Margery Wolf, Stanford University

YOUNGNOK KOO AND SUNGJOO HAN, eds. The Foreign Policy of the Republic of Korea (Columbia University Press, 1984)
 A unique insiders' perspective on the course of Korea's foreign policy since the end of the Korean War.

Bruce Cumings. The Origins of the Korean War: Liberation and the Emergence of Separate Regimes, 1945-1947 (Princeton University Press, 1981) Available in paperback
 "...must be read by anyone who is even remotely interested in Korea." Gregory Henderson, Fairbank Center for East Asian Research, Harvard University

Harold Joyce Noble. Embassy at War (University of Washington Press, 1975)
 An account of the early weeks of the Korean War and U.S. relations with the South Korean president, Syngman Rhee, by the then first secretary in the U.S. embassy in Seoul.

PACIFIC BASIN

John Bresnan. Managing Indonesia: The Modern Political Economy (Columbia University Press, 1993)
 The first broad study of the sources of power and growth in Indonesia from 1965 on, which places the political economy in the context of the managed pluralism of the wider region.

James W. Morley, ed. Driven by Growth: Political Change in the Asia-Pacific Region (M. E. Sharpe, 1992)
 "I would recommend the book to anyone interested in the nexus between economic modernization and democratic development." Diane K. Mauzy, University of British Columbia

Anek Laothamatas. Business Associations and the New Political Economy of Thailand: From Bureaucratic Polity to Liberal Corporatism (Westview Press, 1991)
 "This is the most important book on Thai society published in the past five years." Clark D. Neher, Northern Illinois University

Hugh T. Patrick, ed., with Larry Meissner. Pacific Basin Industries in Distress: Structural Adjustment and Trade Policy in the Nine Industrialized Economies (Columbia University Press, 1991)
 "...a first-rate contribution to the discussion of an important set of issues in trade and industry policy in the Asian-Pacific community." Peter Drysdale, Australia-Japan Research Center

Robert Muscat. Thailand and the United States:

Development, Security and Foreign Aid
(Columbia University Press, 1990)

"Beyond its success in documenting the effectiveness as well as the weaknesses of the U.S. aid program, the volume also provides a thorough study of the past 40 years of Thai-U.S. relations." Donald Zagoria, Foreign Affairs

James W. Morley, ed. Security Interdependence in the Asia Pacific Region (Lexington Books, D.C. Heath and Co., 1986)

Essays by scholars, businessmen, and policy-makers from the United States, East and Southeast Asia.

James W. Morley, ed. The Pacific Basin: New Challenges for the United States (Academy of Political Science, 1986)

Authoritative and forward-looking analyses of the changing conditions in the Pacific Basin region.

Dennis Yasutomo. Japan and the Asian Development Bank (Greenwood, 1983)

The first systematic study of two decades of Japan's participation in the Bank.

Melvin Gurtov. The First Vietnam Crisis (Columbia University Press, 1967; Greenwood reprint)

A comprehensive account of the political crisis of 1953-54, the French withdrawal from Indochina, the ensuing establishment of two Vietnams, and the initial U.S. commitment in the Vietnam war.

Please place your purchase orders and inquiries directly with the presses as listed below (the East Asian Institute does not sell the Studies):

Academy of Political Science
2852 Broadway
New York, NY 10025-7885
Tel: 212-866-6752

Basil Blackwell
238 Main Street
Cambridge, MA 02142
Tel: 800-488-2665

Cambridge University Press
40 West 20th Street
New York, NY 10011
Tel: 800-221-4512

Columbia University Press
136 South Broadway
Irvington, NY 10533
Tel: 800-944-8648

The Free Press
866 Third Avenue
New York, NY 10022
Tel: 800-323-7445

Garland Publishing Inc.
717 Fifth Avenue, 26 Fl
New York, NY 10022
Tel: 800-627-6273

Greenwood Publishing Group
P.O. Box 5007
Westport, CT 06881
Tel: 800-225-5800

Harvard University Press
79 Garden Street
Cambridge, MA 02138
Tel: 800-448-2242

Kent State University Press
Kent, Ohio 44242-0001
Tel: 216-672-7913

Kodansha International
c/o Putnam Publishing
390 Murray Hill Parkway
East Rutherford, NJ 07073
Tel: 800-631-8571

Lexington Books
D.C. Heath and Co.
125 Spring Street
Lexington, MA 02173
Tel: 800-334-3284

M.E. Sharpe
80 Business Park Drive
Armonk, NY 10504
Tel: 800-541-6563

Media Production Group
c/o Institute for Education on Japan
Earlham College
Richmond, IN 47374
Tel: 317-983-1324

Oxford University Press
200 Madison Avenue
New York, NY 10016
Tel: 800-334-4249

Princeton University Press
41 Williams Street
Princeton, NJ 08540
Tel: 800-777-4726

St. Martin's Press
175 Fifth Avenue
New York, NY 10010
Tel: 800-221-7945

Stanford University Press
Stanford, CA 94305
Tel: 415-723-1593

Weatherhill, Inc.
420 Madison Avenue
New York, NY 10017
Tel: 800-437-7840

University Microfilm International
(UMI)
Att: Books on demand
300 North Zeeb Road
Ann Arbor, MI 48106
Tel: 800-521-0600

University of California Press
2120 Berkeley Way
Berkeley, CA 94720
Tel: 800-822-6657

University of Hawaii Press
2840 Kolowalu Street
Honolulu, HI 96822
Tel: 800-650-7811

University of Washington Press
P.O. Box 50096
Seattle, WA 98145
Tel: 800-441-4115

Westview Press
5500 Central Avenue
Boulder, CO 80301
Tel: 800-456-1995

Yale University Press
92A Yale Station
New Haven, CT 06520
Tel: 203-432-0940