If you have an idea for a project about gender related issues or women's rights you can apply for a grant from KVINFO's Pool for Dialogue and Cooperation on Gender and Women's Rights.

The pool supports partnership projects between organizations in Denmark and in the Middle East and North Africa, with the purpose of strengthening women's rights and position in society. Innovative projects aimed at new target groups are prioritised.

The projects receiving grants are very diverse. Recent examples include:

- Combat gender based violence in Hebron – conflict resolution and awareness raising about gender rights for both men and women.
- Young Syrian refugee women in Jordan expressing their life experiences through contemporary Arab rap recordings.
- Enhancing the possibilities of women's active involvement in civil society in Kurdish Iraq and in the political decision-making process.

You can also apply for a smaller start-up grant in order to develop your project and identify possible project partners. The Pool is financed by the Danish-Arab Partnership Programme under the Danish Ministry of Foreign Affairs.
